

First social gathering of students and employees of the ISSBS

On 30 May 2008, the International School of Social and Business Studies (ISSBS) organised the first social gathering of its students, professors and other employees, which took place in Rečica ob Laškem.

Despite an unexpected spring storm the event was attended by many students and professors, including ISSBS's dean. Participants got to know each other better through sports and other activities. The most enthusiastic sportsmen took part in football and volleyball tournaments. The highlight of the competitive part of the evening was pulling the rope, an activity that brought nice awards to the winners.

A part of the evening was devoted to humorous games intended for the most courageous participants.

The social gathering was very successful and represented a pleasant way to end the academic year. We hope that there will be more similar events organised in the future.
